Looking farther ahead..

Saturday, April 18, 2020 First Church of Christ, Scientist, Victoria in the afternoon. This is a first for the choir, traveling this distance. We will also be performing in Nanaimo the same weekend. There is a fabulous organ in the Victoria church and we are excited that organist Jenny Vincent will again join us.

And another bit of news..

Once again Island Consort is entering the CBC Choral Competition. Some of the finest choirs in the country will be our competition. This requires a lot of hard work!

And we have fun..

Robin and Zinda FitzGerald host a potluck dinner with a rehearsal at their lovely home in Cedar by the sea. Not only is singing a skill that we aspire to, but the potluck culinary art is out of this world.

Then when all is sung and done for the year, it's BBQ time with Don and Mary Butt on Gabriola Island, where it is difficult to concentrate on the food, with the expanse of the Salish Sea before us.

The Island Consort provides a bursary to a vocal student competing in the Upper Island Music Festival. The winner of this year's bursary will be announced later in April.

From the Director

Since the Island Consort now has a library of more than 270 choral pieces, many performed only once, we feel that there is merit to re-visiting some to present a cross-section of our 12 years of singing. So, with 5 centuries of music (and 14 languages) to draw from, here is a tribute to the wealth of choral music and the composers who have produced such a varied and wonderful palette of material to share with you.

And, once again, we are privileged to have Jenny Vincent as our accompanist.
